COURSE WELCOME MESSAGE

Dear Friends & Colleagues,

Once again, the National University Heart Centre, Singapore invites you to attend the 5th Asian Cardiothoracic Surgery Specialty Update Course on 19-20 November 2010.

Organised jointly with the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh and the Chinese University of Hong Kong, this course will provide an interactive look at contemporary cardiac and thoracic surgery. Building on the success of previous years, we will feature cutting-edge, evidence-based and clinically relevant information on present and future directions in these areas. Topics will cover applied & basic sciences, common cardiothoracic surgical conditions & complications, and strategies for the management of complex cases. A new component will be sessions on the surgical management of Congenital Heart Disease in both adults and children.

Apart from didactic lectures, debates will be held on controversial issues and interactive seminars will be conducted. These interactive seminars will include discussions on the management of simulated & case-based scenarios, and will be moderated by international experts.

The Skills Sessions and Workshops will also be of great educational value. This year we have dedicated a whole day for a focus on Aortic Dissection and TEVAR, to discuss this interesting & challenging topic, and to provide exposure to endovascular techniques & simulators.

Geared towards all professionals involved in the multidisciplinary environment of Cardiothoracic Surgery, this exciting course will provide opportunities to discuss contentious subjects close to the heart, in an approachable and engaging environment. Our goal is to provide a course that is both educationally enlightening and socially entertaining.

We encourage cardiothoracic & vascular surgeons, cardiothoracic anaesthesiologists & intensivists, interventional radiologists, perfusionists, nurses, researchers and other allied health professionals to participate in this learning experience.

Please join us in November 19-20th, 2010, for the 5th Asian Cardiothoracic Surgery Specialty Update Course.
