INVESTIGATOR-INITIATED TRIALS WORKSHOP

ACADEMY OF MEDICINE
SINGAPORE

College of Clinician Scientists

Brought to you by the College of Clinician Scientists
In collaboration with

The Pivotal Role of Investigator Initiated Trials

Brief introduction to the vital role investigator-initiated trials play in the healthcare landscape and the key opportunities and challenges they offer

A/Prof Teoh Yee Leong
CEO,
Singapore Clinical Research Institute

Developing Research Questions and Protocol Design

Key tips for identifying important clinical gaps and formulating research questions that will interest collaborators as well as potential study funders and supporters

Dr Senthil Sockalingam
VP & Head,
Quintiles Medical Services

Developing Budgets and Securing Funding

Guidance on developing clear and well-thought-out budgets for successful funding applications and study conduct, including common mistakes and solutions

A/Prof Toh Han Chong
Snr. Consultant, NCCS

Collaborating with Industry

Unique insights into the goals, research areas, and review processes for IITs within industry and the benefits of partnerships between industry and researchers

Chris King
Head of Oncology, IMS
Health Asia Pacific and
China

Data Management and Biostatistics

Quality data is key to successful research and publication. This session will detail the data management process from database and CRF design to biostatistics analysis

Kripesh Krishnan
Assoc. Director
Quintiles Clinical
Data Management

Clinical Monitoring Strategies for IITs

Various strategies are available to monitor IITs. This session details the methods available and how to select the best option to ensure safety and quality in your study

Lisa Marie Saldanha
Director & Head,
Quintiles Academic
Research Group

Full Agenda

TIME	LENGTH	SESSION TITLE AND OVERVIEW	PRESENTER
2.00 pm	5 mins	WELCOME ADDRESS	Prof Pierce Chow President, College of Clinician Scientists
2:05 pm	15 mins	INTRODUCTION: THE PIVOTAL ROLE OF INVESTIGATOR-INITIATED CLINICAL TRIALS Brief introduction to investigator-initiated research including the vital role it plays in the healthcare landscape, and some of the key opportunities and challenges to be addressed through this workshop .	A/Prof Teoh Yee Leong CEO, Singapore Clinical Research Institute
2:20 pm	15 mins	HOW TO SECURE FUNDING AND COST STUDIES Securing funding is key to getting an IIT started. Speakers will share their experience on how to attract and secure funding and how to cost clear and well thought-out budgets. Commons mistakes made in investigator-initiated trial budgeting.	A/Prof Toh Han Chong Snr. Consultant, NCCS
2.35 pm	15 mins	COLLABORATING WITH INDUSTRY Investigator-initiated research has become a key means of collaboration between industry and academia and is a key source of potential funding that investigators can explore for support. Industry will share their perspectives on the kinds of proposals that interests them, who and how to approach industry, the existing review processes, and the benefits of various partnerships with industry to address your research questions.	A/Prof Christopher Chen Snr. Consultant, NUHS
2:50 pm	15 mins		Chris King Head of Oncology, IMS Health Asia Pacific and China
3.05 pm	15 mins		Dr Mark Bach Vice President and Head, Asia Pacific Medical Sciences, Johnson & Johnson Pte Ltd
3:20 pm	10 mins	TEA BREAK
3:30 pm	10 mins	RESEARCH QUESTIONS, STUDY CONCEPTS AND PROTOCOL DESIGN Key tips and tricks for identifying clinical gaps and formulating good research questions that will interest collaborators as well as potential sponsors in industry and public funding bodies. Using examples, we will also explore the commonly-used study designs and fundamental elements such as inclusion/exclusion criteria to ensure your protocols directly address your developed hypotheses.	Dr Senthil Sockalingam VP & Head, Quintiles Med. Services
3.40 pm	10 mins		A/Prof David Lye Snr. Consultant , TTSH
3.50 pm	10 mins		A/Prof Louis Tong Snr. Consultant , SNEC
4:00 pm	15 mins	DATA MANAGEMENT AND BIostatISTICS In essence, trials aim to collect necessary data to address a specific research question. Collecting and assessing this data can be a complex issue given the number of database platforms, guidelines, and steps involved. This session will run through an example study to describe the data management process from database and CRF design, compliance, cleaning, right through to biostatistics analysis of data and reporting to address the hypothesis.	Kripesh Krishnan Assoc. Director, Quintiles Clinical Data Management
4:15 pm	15 mins	CLINICAL MONITORING STRATEGIES Clinical monitoring is an important step in protecting patient well-being and ensuring the data collected is valid and complete, however there are a number of strategies that can be employed to accomplish successful monitoring. This session will provide a brief overview of clinical monitoring before detailing the various types of monitoring strategies which can be used on studies of different sizes and complexities as well as determining key data points to be verified on-site.	Lisa Marie Saldanha Director & Head, Quintiles Academic Research Group
4.30 pm	10 mins	TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS – ROADMAP TOWARDS BETTER CROSS BORDER COLLABORATIONS	A/Prof John Chia Snr. Consultant, NCCS
4:40 pm	10 Mins	CONCLUSION AND MEETING SUMMARY Final summary of key learnings from the workshop along with locations of further resources and closing comments.	Prof Pierce Chow President, College of Clinician Scientists
