Head

Occupational and Aviation
Medicine Service,
Changi General Hospital

Synopsis

Changi General Hospital (CGH) recently set up an Occupational and Aviation Medicine Service earlier in 2024. From the occupational medicine aspect, there are so many opportunities for the practice of occupational medicine, both in looking after hospital staff (healthcare workers) as well as external (corporate) patients, leveraging on the inherent strengths of a PHI. Yet the size of a PHI also poses inherent challenges to setting up an efficient occupational medicine practice that can compete with the private sector. This interactive session will explore CGH's experience and aspirations in establishing the new Service.
